James (Jim) Martin is a tenured Professor of Social Work and Social Research and a Licensed Independent Clinical Social Worker with forty-nine years of professional social work practice. His scholarship, teaching, and public service focus on the well being of individuals, families and communities, and his research and civic engagement (f)6.9 (a)9.2 (m)-6 (p,)-21.8i13d-2.3 (e)9.2 (a)9.2 (r)(e)9.2 (s)lies shiciv4.6 (l)-15.5chi9.2 (t)-4.6 (i (he senior program management (command) and policy Combat Theater during the First Gulf War.

Department of Defense and other related federal, as well initiatives. In 2007 Jim was invited to testify before the House of Representatives on Wounded Warriors. Jim has remained engaged in services for military/Veteran-connected populations, and has been instrumental in the prevention of military death.

Military life demands confronting members of our community. Jim has made significant efforts to promote solutions to the many challenges that military families face. He has demonstrated the ability to conceptualize social work interventions and the implementation of national, state and local policies and programs that support the needs of children, families, and communities.

Jim has served on the Board of Directors to the Mary McLeod Bethune Behavioral Health Institute, the National Military Child Education Coalition Steering Committee, the National Advisory Commission on Military, Health, and Family Issues, the University of Pittsburgh's Board of Examiners in Clinical Social Work, and the Pennsylvania Board of Examiners for Clinical Social Work.

Jim was the first to be named a Distinguished Professor at Bryn Mawr College. He was named a Distinguished Professor at the University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work Practice and he received the Distinguished Professor Award from the School of Social Work. In 2016 the National Social Work Pioneer Award described Jim as a pioneer in social work. Jim has been instrumental in the development of social work outposts for human services on many frontiers. He has been instrumental in the development of social policies through service, research, and legislation. During his military career Jim received the Distinguished Service Medal, the Meritorious Service Medal, and the Army Surgeon General's Award of Military Medical Merit. He has also received numerous awards recognizing leaders in their specialty who
